

Compiling A Wiki From Source Documents

Andrej Karpathy describes a workflow in which an LLM compiles dropped documents into a linked wiki, and the links become the retrieval index.

Luka implements that workflow as an Obsidian plugin.

Retrieval Without Embeddings

Personalized PageRank over the wikilink graph replaces the usual vector search. Seeds come from one model call against the index document; the ranking itself is deterministic power iteration over an undirected graph.